

PRESIDENT NOT TO ASK REVISION, FOREIGN DEBTS

American Delegates To Conference Not To Commit
The Nation

RELIEF EVIDENT

Possibility Battle Over Question Has Been Averted

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 13.— President Roosevelt will make no request to Congress for authority to revise the $11,000,000,000 debt of European nations, congressional leaders were informed today.

The American delegates to the London Conference thus will enter into it without authority to commit the nation either for a postponement or a revision of the debts.

Whether the President ever intended to seek authority to deal with the debt question in connection with the economic conference remains a matter of conjecture in Democratic circles on Capitol Hill.

A distinct sigh of relief was evident, however, over the conviction that the possibility of a battle over the debt question has been averted.

American Legion Cadets To Sponsor Show Here

Under the auspices of the American Legion Cadets the Burlington County Legion Band will present a complete minstrel show and five acts of excellent vaudeville here on Wednesday evening at St. Mark's Hall.

This group of musicians carry their own band and full orchestra in addition to the minstrel circle of chorus, soloists and end men. The Artists, two men who make pictures by crayon and rags; Iron Jay Nelson, who performs superhuman feats of strength; Legion quartet, with a reputation on the radio; Chandu's Shadow, who will mystify before your eyes, last and positively enjoyable, the "Little Cher-man Band."

From overture to the grand finale both old and young will enjoy a show that is packed with good clean entertainment. This show has been presented before the P. T. A. of Pembrton, N. J., Legion Post of Burlington and Beverly, and the Community Band of Mount Holly, N. J., with the only criticism offered that the show was too long. This has been corrected by eliminating encores and curtain calls so that the show speeds along through two and a half hours with nothing repeated or lagging. Following the showing here the troupe will play in Roebling and Maple Shade, N. J.

All Cadets are supplied with tickets and they request the earnest support of everyone.

HITLER TO APPEAR BEFORE REICH

Berlin, Germany, May 13.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler will appear before the Reich next Wednesday to present a conciliatory compromise plan for world disarmament which may lead to an international armed agreement at Geneva.

This was learned by I. N. S. today as reports from London and Paris disclosed keen sentiment in favor of enforcing the penalty provision of the Treaty of Versailles "to the hilt" in the event Germany insists upon rearmings.

Hitler will not only explain Germany's views of disarmament, but will call upon other countries for a complete clarification of the European political situation.

His address promises to be one of the most important delivered before any parliament since the World War.
He will announce the aims of Germany's new Nazi government and declare that before the World Economic Conference meets in London there must be an international understanding through "the triumph of common sense."

MAY BUILD UP NAVY

Washington, D. C., May 13.—If the disarmament conference at Geneva fails, President Roosevelt will lay down a construction program to increase both the military and air strength of the country, it was learned today on unquestionable authority.

The President would like to include an appropriation for this purpose in the proposed $3,200,000,000 public works program and may do so if the disarmament conference goes on the rocks.

At the present time the conference is deadlocked by Germany's demand for the right to re-arm.

The expense of the aviation program has not been decided upon by the President. In fact, he has not had time to work it out. However, it was made known that it would include the building up of the naval air force to full treaty strength. This would mean the construction of three new aircraft carriers.

President Roosevelt's determination to maintain the defense forces of the nation at treaty strength has been reiterated innumerable times.

COUNTY TREASURER TO ISSUE BEER LICENSES

Expects to Receive List of Violators From State Department

NOW AWAITING BLANKS

It is expected that a list of persons convicted of violating liquor laws in Bucks County since 1930 will be filed with Bucks County Treasurer Leidy M. Landis and Deputy Treasurer A.
Harry Clayton, within the next few days, by the State Attorney General's office.

In Philadelphia county a list of 1500 persons convicted since 1930 will be furnished to City Treasurer George E.
Kemp. It has been pointed out that the lists furnished County Treasurers are not necessarily "black lists," but are for the guidance of the treasurers in issuing permits and licenses in Bucks County.

As soon as the necessary blanks arrive from the State printing department, County Treasurer Landis and his office associates will start on the new line of work that has been added to their office routine—the issuing of beer licenses.

It is not known how large the Bucks county list of violators will be, or whether a liquor law violation will bar the applicant from securing a license to sell beer.

MOTHER'S DAY

By President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS by House Joint Resolution 263, approved and signed by President Wilson on May 8, 1914, the second Sunday in May of each year has been designated as Mother's Day for the expression of our love and reverence for the mothers of our country; and

WHEREAS Senate Resolution 16, adopted May 1, 1933, states that "there are throughout our land today an unprecedentedly large number of mothers and dependent children who, because of unemployment or loss of their bread earners, are lacking many of the necessities of life," and the President of the United States is therein authorized and requested to issue a proclamation calling these matters to the attention of our citizens on Mother's Day this year;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority invested in me, do hereby issue my proclamation calling upon our citizens to express on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 14, 1933, our love and reverence for motherhood:

(a) By the customary display of the United States flag on all Government buildings, homes, and other suitable places;

(b) By the usual tokens and messages of affection to our mothers; and

(c) By doing all that we can through our churches, fraternal and welfare agencies, for the relief and welfare of mothers and children who may be in need of the necessities of life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereon set my hand and cause the seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE AT the city of Washington this second day of May, in the year of our Lord 1933, and of the Independence of the United States of America one hundred and fifty-seven.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

CORDELL HULL, Secretary of State.

MANY ARE SERVED BY LIBRARIES OF COUNTY

It is Estimated That at Least 90,000 Receive
Books

NINETEEN IN COUNTY

Of Bucks county's population of 96,727 people, 90,000 have been given library service, according to data procured by Mrs. Howard A. Clymer, Eureka, county chairman of libraries of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, who had the assistance of County Superintendent J. Harry Hoffman, Doylestown, in procuring this and other information regarding the libraries.

Population in the county has been divided into two groups, urban with a population approximating 45,000 and rural with about 51,000 residents. The report shows that about 6,000 persons in the county are without library service.

Most of the smaller towns and villages get books from their nearest library centers. The total amount spent for libraries last year, it was found, was less than one half per cent the total amount the county spent for schools.

About 400 schools have libraries of their own aside from texts and supplementary readers and teachers act as librarians in many schools.

There have been 50 stations served during the year with traveling libraries with an average of 5 books in collection. Mail service is available to libraries and some schools. There have been 25 library workers who have had one year or more of library school training and 5 college graduates are working in libraries in the county.

Mention has been made of the 19 libraries located in various parts of the county and of the New Hope and Solebury Free Library. It was said this organization celebrated its 25th anniversary at the time of the spring meeting of the Bucks County Library Association at that place on April 25.

The Mary H. Walter Library at Eue-reka has been supplying books to the schools in that community. Every two weeks the teachers of the six schools of the district go to the library for books for the pupils. One school in Warwick and one in Doylestown are also supplied with books. Five school rooms in one of the townships in Montgomery county also receive books.

These townships have been showing their appreciation of this library by making contributions annually to the library association. This library attended the annual meeting of the Bucks County Library Association at that place on April 25.

Fourth Annual Minstrel Big Affair in Andalusia

ANDALUSIA, May 13.—Fourth annual minstrel show of the Men's Club, Church of the Redeemer, occurred here Wednesday night, with an attendance of about 250.

The performance had as its opening number a baby parade, in charge of the end men. The participants were:
Mr. Pickersgill, Forrest Jackson, Lewis Stackhouse, Thomas Andrews, Alex MacFarland. The interlocutor was Watson Wright; accompanist, Lynn Taylor; and L. Hartman had charge of the spot-light effects.

Numbers in the show included: solo, Elmer VanSant, Eddington; vocal number, Arthur Towle; "You're the One I Care For," Fred Vandegrift; harmonica solo, Lawrence Clemenson, accompanied by George Lauer on the musical saw, with second chorus by Harry Eggert, whistling accompanist; solo, "It Ain't No Fault of Mine," Lewis Stackhouse; specialty act, Raymond Eggert, accompanied at the piano by Harry Eggert; vocal number, "Blue Kentucky Moon," Walter B. gan; crystal gazing act, by end men;
"Shuffle Off to Buffalo," ensemble.

During the intermission Miss Elaine Jackson and Miss Virginia Oliver carried with two novelty dances. Carmen Torretti gave two Italian selections, and Lynn Taylor and Raymond Eggert favored with piano duos.

The second act of the minstrel opened with the entire chorus singing "Are You From Dixie?" Other numbers were: Song, Raymond Eggert; solo, Forrest Jackson; "Wonderful Mother of Mine," Arthur Towle; "Rock-a-bye Moon," Robert Vansant; "The Preacher and the Bear," Alex MacFarland; lyric contest, end-men, with the interlocutor winning when he said he did not care about such things; "Pink Elephants," Mr. Andrews; banjo duets, by George Lauer, this number later developing into the "Melody Four," which gave several selections, with Raymond Eggert using the mandolin, Alex MacFarland, banjo, and Harry Eggert the du-wack.

A novelty act by Harry and Raymond Eggert was thoroughly enjoyable. Watson Wright sang "Pal of My Dreams." All enjoyed tricks in magic by Mr. Andrews. F. Jackson entertained with magic likewise. As a mandolin solo W. Brogan gave "If I Had You in My Arms Tonight." Before the show was brought to a close the end-men brought forth some more interesting magic.

"Magnezia" hypnotized "Pluto." This did not go over with either "Cas-carel" or "Elax," so they decided to do away with "Magnezia" and brought in a coffin and cut him in half.

The circle consisted of George Lauer, Arthur Towle, Harry Eggert, Raymond Eggert, Fred Vandegrift, Robert Van Sant, Walter Brogan, Lawrence Clemenson.

This show will be shown again in Langhorne for the benefit of Hulme-ville and Langhorne Odd Fellows, May 24th.

CHILD HEALTH DAY TO BE OBSERVED WEDNESDAY

Local Doctors Will Then Examine Children at The Community House

CO-OPERATION IS URGED

The proclamation of President Roosevelt, the statement of Governor Pinchot, and also that of Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, all regarding May Day or child health day, urge the people to greater appreciation of the children, and bigger interest regarding their health.

Governor Pinchot says: "Pennsylvania, as a geographical area has its mines, its factories, its lands and streams and forests, resources unequalled in the world. But Pennsylvania as a social unit has only one asset, and that asset is its children. All of its physical assets are only tools to work for health and happiness for its children."

Bristol will observe May Day (child health day), Wednesday, May 17th, when between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., at the community house, local doctors will examine children, and advise parents of defects and necessary corrections.

Parents are asked to take advantage of this opportunity in order that the children entering school for the first time next September might be in first-class condition.

Examinations will be given for defective teeth, eyes, tonsils; defor-mities. Toxin-antitoxin will be administered if the parents desire such for their children. "No child should die of diphtheria, yet there were 349 deaths from this dangerous disease last year in Pennsylvania," states Miss Lucia Cluney, who will assist at the clinic.
Every baby may have the treatment at the age of six months. It is also stated the child should be vaccinated before its first birthday.

Decaying teeth mean poor food habits, and poor teeth lead to a multitude of ills later in life.

The finding of defects in their early stages when corrections may be simple, is far better than to awaken serious disease conditions later.
The preventing of "repeaters" in school saves a school board's money.
Teachers testify in many towns in the state today that when children of preschool age are examined and prepared for their start in school, the number of pupils in the early grades have been lessened, said children advancing regularly.

Have your child examined May 17th at the community house.

The Mothers' Association members are canvassing the borough, making house-to-house visits, and inviting mothers to take their children to be examined.

matched. Individual scores gave honors to Mrs. LeRoy Nixon and Mrs. H.
G. Miller, Newtown, who answered 82 of 100 questions correctly. Mrs. Shellenberger, Doylestown, followed closely with 81 correctly answered.

Alexander Liveright of the social economy department of Bryn Mawr College, spoke. Reports were given on the county survey now being carried on in Bucks County under direction of the State League.

SCHOOL ATHLETES IN COMPETITION HERE IN BIG ANNUAL MEET

Bucks County Track and Field Events Being Held
Today

INCLEMENT WEATHER

Students Arrive From All Sections of Bucks County

The athletic field at Bristol high school swarmed with athletes from all corners of Bucks County when the annual track and field meet of Bucks County public schools got under way this morning.

Although weather forecasts were somewhat dubious, many pupils arrived long before the starting time, 9:30, eager to participate in any of their scheduled events. The field was pronounced in first-class condition, and athletes paced about the field eager for the whistle that would signal the start of races and contests.

Early interest was manifest in the fine cinder track, and trials were made by some at the jumping pits and other points where various contests were being prepared for.

Bus transportation the majority of the Bucks County students to the Bristol High grounds, at which site the affair has been held for three years. All preparations had been made for the needs of the students. The gymnasium, dressing rooms, etc., were at their disposal. Lunch counters and ice cream stands early claimed attention of the young folks whose hunger seemed most marked in spite of the fact the breakfast hour had not long passed.

Right on the dot of 9:30 runners in suits of red, orange, blue, white, and other shades commenced their treks down the course, with the sidelines lined with lusty cheerers.

At an early hour returns from the numerous heats were broadcast by means of a microphone placed in the high school building. The first two final returns were:

Class C, girls' standing broad jump:
First, Rogers, Bristol Township, 7'-5 1/4"; second, Beswick, Bristol borough; third, Wood, Falls Township.

Class B, girls' basketball throw:
First, Evans, New Hope, 75'; second, Golden, Richboro; third, Spindell, Falls Township.

Close was the half-mile relay in Class D for boys. The contest was rather mediocre to start, but by the time the third man was to be relieved of the baton by the fourth, Newtown's and Lower Makefield's entries were neck-and-neck. Around the track the two runners sped, each keen in his endeavor to show the other fellow his heels. Finally Newtown's runner with his long, steady stride, forged ahead, and took the laurels.

Teachers from the participating schools were at their positions on the field, each with their assistants carrying out the detailed work in a most business-like way. All events of the morning got underway smoothly, and on time. In the gymnasium score-keepers were at work, while from a vantage point in the structure instructions and reports were given frequently to those who milled about the field.

In addition to the participants in the high and broad jumps, running races, basketball and baseball throws, etc., there were many spectators, each anxious that their proteges or friends bring laurels to their schools. The crowd is expected to be augmented by many more well-wishers as the day advances.

Mothers Are Guests Of Class Members At Dinner

Members of the Sunday School class, Bristol M. E. Church, taught by Miss May Smoyer, entertained their mothers last evening in honor of Mother's Day. The affair was held in the church social hall and at eight o'clock a dinner was served.

The menu was as follows: Fruit-cup, consommé, salad with Russian dressing, roast beef, gravy, mashed potatoes, string beans, peas and carrots, beets, tomatoes, cole slaw, hot biscuits, ice cream, cake, coffee, mints and nuts.

A social time was enjoyed. Vocal solos were given by Misses Carrie Rapp and Marie Wurster. Group singing was also indulged in.

SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1933

MOTHER'S DAY

"There is none in all this hollow world, no fount of deep, strong, deathless love, save that within a mother's heart," sang the poet, and it is so.

Who loves as a mother loves? Nobody.

She gives all, rejoicing in the giving, and asks nothing.

But she is entitled to something more than a passing thought now and then, and so, because men and women are so busy that they are neglectful, it has been deemed wise to set aside a special day for Mother.

Tomorrow, then is Mother's Day—when sons and daughters the world over will themselves be better and will add much to the joy of thousands of loving hearts, if they will in one way or another remember their mothers and let those mothers know it.

We are what our mothers made us. If there is virtue in us, it is theirs; if there is vice, it is theirs; if we have achieved happiness it is because we followed her precepts. Happy the man who has a mother to share and rejoice in his little triumphs—one who overlooks his faults and magnifies his virtues and makes him desirous of living up to her estimate of him.

"Happy be

"With such a mother! Faith in womankind Beats in his blood, and trust in all things high Comes easy to him, and though he trip and fall He shall not blind his soul with clay."

WATCHING THE FAR EAST

The attention of Great Britain, which has extensive trade interests in the Far East, has been drawn to the reported plans for abandonment of the open-door policy in Manchukuo, the Japanese-controlled state set up in Manchuria.

It was not to be expected that Britain would unprotestingly consent to such a course. This belief has found support in the House of Commons, where the government was asked what steps it proposed to take to protect British trade interests.

The reported statement by the Japanese member of the Manchukuo privy council that the door would be closed to all nations except those which recognized the new state, Prime Minister Baldwin replied, "is in complete contradiction with repeated declarations by the Japanese government and administrative authorities in Manchuria regarding preservation of the open door as provided by treaty. If it appears that it represents their intentions, we will naturally take any steps to defend the principle of the open door. At present I find it difficult to credit in view of the assurance I have received."

The British government, of course, would await official announcement of the new policy before taking formal action. The prime minister's statement, however, indicated it was not disinterested in the reports and that the situation would be watched.

The statement by the Japanese privy councillor in Manchukuo probably was intended by Tokyo as a trial balloon, the move being intended chiefly to see how other nations would regard the proposal.

"MARY FAITH" by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER XL

Claire Maldon! . . . The name leaped at her out of all the other things that he had just said. She heard nothing else. She needed nothing else but that name. It told her instantly why Kim was sitting before her now, calmly demanding a divorce—why he had been irritable and indifferent ever since the beginning of winter.

"Why didn't I know it?" she murmured.

"Know what?"

"That Claire Maldon's at the bottom of all this. . . Wouldn't you think that I'd have guessed that some time or other during all these weeks when you wouldn't talk to me or come home to meals or pay any attention to the baby?"

She began to laugh suddenly. A bitter little laugh with a break in it. "When I think of all the nights I've lain there on that couch wondering what was wrong!—Trying to tell myself that you were worried about your business, or that you stayed away from home so much because you were playing cards downtown with the men. Wouldn't you have thought I'd have guessed that it was because of some woman, as usual? Some girl in an office or a drug store—or some married woman like Claire Maldon?"

Kim stared at her in bewilderment. "I hope you're not going to be dramatic about this," he said, with all a man's fear of a scene in his voice. "We can settle it quietly, can't we? And sensibly?"

"If you mean that we can arrange a divorce, my answer is 'No.'" There was no hesitation in Mary Faith's voice. "If I knew that you were honestly in love with her and that she was honestly in love with you, I think perhaps I'd let you go, Kim. But I don't know either of those things. The only thing I'm certain of is that Claire never will care very much for anybody but herself. And if you—"

"I don't see why Claire has to be dragged into this," Kim broke in violently. "I haven't said that I'm in love with her."

But a dull red flush crept under his blond skin, and he threw back his head defiantly, like a wayward boy who has been found out in some stupid deception.

"It just happens that I do think a lot of Claire, though," he added awkwardly, as if he were half-ashamed of what he was saying. "I wasn't going to tell you this—but you've asked for it, so here goes. I've been crazy about her ever since I've known her—"

"But that's not true, Kim!" Mary Faith cried. "You were in love with me when you asked me to marry you two years ago, and you knew her then. And you knew her two years ago when you were so infatuated with Janet McCune—and this fall when you had some sort of affair with that girl in the drug store. You got over those affairs, and you'll get over this one, Kim. You're like that. I don't say one woman is just the same as another to you, but almost. If there's anybody you're faithful to, you're faithful to me—in a way. You always do come back to me. Don't you?"

He wouldn't answer her. He stood looking at her for a minute or two longer, swinging his head from side to side.

"But even if you are in love with Claire," she went on, "you can't think entirely of yourself now. You have a son and you've got to stick to him. In a few years he'll be growing up, and I won't be able to do the things for him that a boy's father ought to do. I won't be able to tell him how to take a punch on the jaw in the schoolyard, or take him fishing, or explain baseball games to him—or do any of the things that your father should have done for you, if he'd wanted to make a man of you."

Kim's face flushed a dark angry red.

"I suppose you're telling me that I'm not manly enough," Kim said sullenly.

Mary Faith looked at him steadily. "I think you'd understand fair play better than you do, if you'd been allowed to lead a regular boy's life when you were little," she said coolly. "You've told me, yourself, how you were tied to your mother's apron-strings, how you had to lie to her to get away with the other boys. . . . Yes, I do think you'd be more of a man, if you'd had a father to bring you up."

And all at once she was crying wildly, so that she could hardly hear the angry things he was saying to her.

"Kim, let's not quarrel like this," she sobbed. "We can talk this over in a day or two when we've both calmed down a little—"

"I've said everything I want to say," he cut in, "and I've made up my mind as to what I'm going to do. I'm clearing out, and the only way you'll get any money out of me is to sue for a divorce and ask the court to give you alimony. I've tried to be fair, and you've refused to let me be fair. From now on you can fight for what you want, understand? And shaking with rage, he flung himself out of the flat.

"Well!" Amazed by the suddenness of the calamity that had befallen her, Mary Faith sank down on the rug before the fire, put her hands to her head and tried to think clearly.

It came to her gradually that the storm that had just burst had been gathering for a long time. All the last weeks the clouds had been gathering. . . . Weeks ago she ought to have seen what was happening and tried to stop it somehow. She ought to have gone to Claire and appealed to her. Reminded her that Kim had a little baby, as well as a wife and mother to support.

"But it probably wouldn't have done any good," she decided. Claire was just as selfish and spoiled as Kim was. She couldn't see Claire giving up anybody or anything that she wanted—

At half past six Mrs. Farrell came home, carrying an empty shopping bag and wearing upon her massive bosom a large bunch of lavender sweet peas. Mary Faith saw at once that she was laboring under some kind of powerful excitement. There was color in her usually pallid face, and she actually wheezed with excitement. What on earth could have happened to her, to whom nothing of importance had happened in so many, many years?

"M-Mary Faith!" Her voice shook and she gave a nervous little laugh. "Mary Faith, you'll never believe me—I'm going to be married!"

She turned and glanced toward the dining-room. "Is Kimberley here? I suppose I ought to let him know first."

"He was here, but he's gone."

"Hmm—" She gave Mary Faith a sharp look. "He's on the catarampus again?"

"Something like that," Mary Faith answered.

"Well, I'm sorry he's not here. I'd have liked him to have my news first of all!" Triumph and pride gleamed in her eye. "Yes, Dr. Thatcher and I are going to be married in the morning—at his sister's house. And we're going to Florida for our honeymoon! My, I never dreamed of such a thing happening to me when I walked out of this flat this morning!"

She rambled on and on all evening. She was far too excited to settle down to anything, and Mary Faith did most of her packing. Only once did she come down to earth, and that was when she came into Mary Faith's room to say good night.

"Doctor's house looks awfully bare to me," she said. "So I've decided to move most of this furniture into it when we come back from the South. . . . It's old stuff, but it's solid walnut and I can have it done over. You and Kim never did like it much anyway."

Mary Faith did not tell her that Kim had left the flat and was not coming back. She realized that Mrs. Farrell was gloriously happy for the first time in years, and she was not going to do a thing to shadow that happiness.

"I'll clean everything while you're away," she said, "and it will be all ready for you when you get back."

Kim was as good as his word. A week went by, and Mary Faith heard nothing from him. Finally she telephoned him and asked him where he wanted her to send his trunks.

"Athletic Club," he told her shortly.

"Have you heard about your mother and Dr. Thatcher?"

"Yes, I know," he said curtly. "I had a wire from them. Is there anything else?"

"I've got to have some money, Kim. Your mother wants her furniture, and I'll have to have some place to go when she takes it out of the flat."

There was a click as he rang off abruptly. The sharp little sound that was like a period at the end of a sentence. He was telling her once more that he was really through with her. That he was not going to send her any money. That he was going to force her to sue for divorce and alimony.

She hung the receiver back upon its metal hook and turned away from the telephone quickly, as if it were some kind of an infernal machine that had just wounded her terribly and had the power to wound her again.

All the rest of the day she went around the flat doing the little familiar things and trying to decide just what to do. Of course she could get a position as a stenographer at twenty-five dollars a week or so. . . . But could she pay for a nurse girl for the baby out of that and have enough left for their room at Mrs. Puckett's? She knew that she couldn't—and she knew that Kim knew it, too. That was what he was counting on, of course.

Late that night she was awakened by the ringing of the doorbell. When she answered it, Jean Bartlett was standing in the little hallway.

"I can't come in—I can't stop more than a minute!" Jean was breathless, and she laughed as she talked. "I just came to say good-bye. Where do you think I'm going? Out to Phoenix, to be married! I'm leaving tomorrow night! My man was coming east to be married here, but he can't get away, and tonight he called me up and asked me to come out there. So I'm going—and, Mary Faith, I'm so happy!"

They kissed each other and cried a little. And then, as Jean was leaving, Mary Faith called her back.

"Just a minute, Jean," she said. "Who's slated for your job at Nesbitt's?"

Other people might marry and go to Florida or Arizona, your own heart might break, but still you had to face the problem of making a living.

BLACK AND WHITE RULE PARIS CLOTHES DESPITE MODISTES

Such Combination is Clung To For Wear About Town

By Alice Langelier (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) PARIS—(INS)—Black and white is back again for the smartest frocks and ensembles of marked chic and simplicity. Well-dressed Parisiennes cling to this combination for town wear no matter what the designers bring forth.

Early in the day a cable from London told that Connie had been signed to appear opposite Leslie Howard in the film "The Lady Is Willing."

Thus the matter stands, a bit confused and waiting explanation. Meanwhile Miller continues preparations to start shooting as soon as Howard can tear himself away from Hollywood and report for work.

The picture, a sophisticated comedy of the type of "Trouble in Paradise," has been spicily titled: "The Lady Is Willing." Jo Swerling, Columbia's story ace, did the screen treatment.

Credit Eileen Percy with one of the better wisecracks of the week. The other morning she and the boy friend were playing a round of golf. He got caught in a sandtrap and flayed away to no avail.

Eileen watched with interest. Finally she said: "I wouldn't hit that thing any more. I believe it's dead."

HOLLYWOOD PARADE. At Rouben Mamoulian's party Marlene Dietrich treated the film in the way of modish colors. Worth is putting emphasis on white black trim for the summer season because he knows it is ever-popular. "Can you imagine a smart woman in a pink ensemble today,—pink coat, dress and hat?" asks this leader of French fashions. "Not one woman in a thousand would attempt it. Black and white and that indeterminate shade, gray, are their choice. "The use of color in day clothes came to us from abroad. The true Parisienne accepted it because it has always been smart in France to accept from time to time ideas from abroad, but she has always preferred black and white and now that there is such a latitude for personal choice in fashion, she has gone back to her old favorite."

A fitted blouse of white satin with elbow-slit sleeve is joined at the hip-line to a black satin skirt and worn with a slim cutaway coat of unlined black, faced with white satin. A white crepe afternoon dress, held by a real waistband of pet, has a short swathed cape of the same crepe sparkling with black sequins and a turban to correspond, not omitting black and white gloves.

There is nothing to suggest age in the black and white scheme of the moment. It seems to be the most interesting phase of modern fashion, largely because of the ultra-youthful treatment. White organdie gains much dignity by its association with any black fabric. Alone, or even with charmingly pretty colors, organdie would not last as a mode. It is the boldness of black that strengthens this ethereal Victorian revival.

Together again at the Mamoulian party, Sandra Shaw and Gary Cooper drew speculative glances. This time the casual Gary seems to be really interested.

From the cables and letters that arrive daily, Ramon Novarro is still very much attracted to Myrna Loy. If she can get away, the actress may take a trip to Europe while Ramon is over there.

Incidentally, the Mexican star is making a great success of his concerts. He has signed for three more engagements, London, Berlin and a repeat at Paris.

Renee Adoree has recuperated from her attack of influenza and is feeling fine. She's living in Tijuana. . . . Friends of Marie Dressler also are very pleased with her improved health. Before that recent vacation Marie used to work only from 10:30 A. M. until 1 P. M. Now she puts in a six-hour day, from 9 to 3. . . . The Thalbergs plan to return here about the middle of June. Charles MacArthur has joined them in Germany and he and Irving are working on several stories.

Together again at the Mamoulian party, Sandra Shaw and Gary Cooper drew speculative glances. This time the casual Gary seems to be really interested.

From the cables and letters that arrive daily, Ramon Novarro is still very much attracted to Myrna Loy. If she can get away, the actress may take a trip to Europe while Ramon is over there.

Incidentally, the Mexican star is making a great success of his concerts. He has signed for three more engagements, London, Berlin and a repeat at Paris.

Renee Adoree has recuperated from her attack of influenza and is feeling fine. She's living in Tijuana. . . . Friends of Marie Dressler also are very pleased with her improved health. Before that recent vacation Marie used to work only from 10:30 A. M. until 1 P. M. Now she puts in a six-hour day, from 9 to 3. . . . The Thalbergs plan to return here about the middle of June. HOLLYWOOD. —In the face of several conflicting statements, Hollywood was trying to puzzle out yesterday whether Constance Cummings and Columbia Pictures will forget that they were recent legal foes and resume business relations, at least for one picture.

Early in the day a cable from London told that Connie had been signed to appear opposite Leslie Howard in the film "The Lady Is Willing."

Thus the matter stands, a bit confused and waiting explanation. Meanwhile Miller continues preparations to start shooting as soon as Howard can tear himself away from Hollywood and report for work.

The picture, a sophisticated comedy of the type of "Trouble in Paradise," has been spicily titled: "The Lady Is Willing." Jo Swerling, Columbia's story ace, did the screen treatment.

a pink ensemble today,—pink coat, dress and hat?" asks this leader of French fashions. "Not one woman in a thousand would attempt it. Black and white and that indeterminate

The true Parisienne accepted it because it has always been smart in France to accept from time to time ideas from abroad, but she has always preferred black and white and now that there is such a latitude for personal choice in fashion, she has gone back to her old favorite."

A fitted blouse of white satin with elbow-slit sleeve is joined at the hip-line to a black satin skirt and worn with a slim cutaway coat of unlined black, faced with white satin. A white crepe afternoon dress, held by a real waistband of pet, has a short swathed cape of the same crepe sparkling with black sequins and a turban to correspond, not omitting black and white gloves.

There is nothing to suggest age in the black and white scheme of the moment. It seems to be the most interesting phase of modern fashion, largely because of the ultra-youthful treatment. White organdie gains much dignity by its association with any black fabric. Alone, or even with charmingly pretty colors, organdie would not last as a mode. It is the boldness of black that strengthens this ethereal Victorian revival.

'JOHNNY' HARMSSEN WINS FOR EDGELY A. C. NINE

Invincible pitching by "Johnny" Harmsen enabled the Edgely A. C. to whitewash the Hibernians, 3-0, on the Edgely field last night. The tilt was a Bristol Twilight League affair and the second consecutive win for the champions of last year.

The hurling of Harmsen coupled with the timely hitting of "Bill" Haines handed the "Hibs" their first defeat of the season. Harmsen allowed but one hit and that was made by Rodgers, the first starter to face the Edgely speed artist. After that bingle, the ultimate losers were harmless and not one could deliver although three others reached first on walks and an error. Not one batter got by second base. In all, Harmsen was credited with eleven strike-outs, meaning that only four batters went out via other routes. Incidentally, the first sacrifice of the Edgely team, Haines, was credited with the other four put-outs.

But this is not where the initial sack ground stood in the spotlight, for he delivered two hits at timely moments of the game to drive in the entire three runs of the winners. In the second inning with Purcell on base as the result of a single and Fekner there because of a pass, he sent a long single to center to score both base runners. He, however, was out trying to stretch the hit. In the fourth with Fekner on base as the result of an error by Francis Dougherty, he again delivered a bingle to score the base runner.

The Jefferson A. C. and the St. Ann's A. C. battled four innings on the St. Ann's field last night, the game being called because of darkness. At the time the St. Ann's team was in the van with the score being, 8-4.

The "Mules" had deadlocked the score in the first part of the fourth only to have the "Saints" come back to score four runs in the latter part of the same inning. Fields with three runs was the star of the game.

BRISTOL HIGH TEAM DEFEATS LANGHORNE

By Oscar Corn

(H. S. Press Representative)
The Bristol High nine "stuck" another feather in its cap yesterday when it handed the Red and Blue of Langhorne a 4-1 defeat, on the Langhorne High diamond.

Having been defeated only once this season, and that lone defeat received from Langhorne, the local team "tied up their score." Vansant, who baffled the Cardinals and Gray batters with his "slants," was hit so freely that he was driven off the mound.

Coach Dougherty's squeeze play again worked to a very good extent. In the third a timely bunt by Manzo scored two runs, and then again in the seventh Joe Dick's bunt scored Rockhill.

In the first inning Rockhill scored when Cahall singled and Rockhill also got a safety, scoring Cahall. In the third Hibbs and Borneice scored on Manzo's timely bunt. Finally on Joe Dick's sacrifice Rockhill came in with the final run.

Langhorne scored their first run in the opening frame. With one out Brunner reached first on a single. This was the only hit Fick allowed during the entire game. Then Downing hit but due to an error he reached first, and Brunner scored.

This game puts Bristol in the first place of the Lower Bucks County League with 5 wins and 1 loss. On Tuesday Bristol will meet Fallsington, who is in second place with 4 wins and 1 loss, at Fallsington.
